Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Oda et al., U.S. Patent # 6,825,264. See entries S-8, S-9, and S-10 in Table 1. Concerning claim 4, this is a product-by-process claim where the product is believed to have a structure similar to that of rejected claim 1. Moreover, as Applicant is sure aware, "even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process" In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985). Given that the products of claim 1 and claim 4 are regarded as equivalent, and claim 1 is clearly unpatentable, then it follows that so too is claim 4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2 and 4-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Butler, U.S. Patent # 5,110,890. Butler discloses the formation of MTQ resins that entails the co-hydrolysis/condensation of the silanes (A), (B) and (C). See the abstract. Relevant to the present discussion, simple calculation of the relative molar contributions of the compounds contributing M, T, and Q units in the Examples verifies that the limitations related to claimed subscripts "a" through "d" are satisfied. Indeed, the only element of the claims not directly anticipated by the prior art is an express teaching of the employment of a silane $RSiY_3$ in the examples where R = propyl. Nevertheless, tri-functional silanes containing any of the lower hydrocarbon substituents as R is clearly envisaged by the description at column 2, lines 31-50 and it is the Examiner's position that the replacement of any of the permutations of $RSiY_3$ in the Examples with, for instance, propyltrichlorosilane would have been obvious.

As for claims 5-10, it should first be stated that the phrases "personal care" and "hair care", and the term "cosmetic" are treated simply as recitations of intended use as in "a product to be used in a personal care (composition)" though it is acknowledged that the invention described by the prior art must be capable of serving in the specified capacity. To the extent that each of claims 5 to 10 mentions only the resin as an ingredient of the personal care, hair care/cosmetic product, any reference that teaches or suggests that resin will be held up as anticipatory of the aforementioned products.

Claims 5-10 are not regarded as being unpatentable over Oda because Oda discloses a comparable resin in the context of preparing a flame retardant thermoplastic composition. Given that these compositions are largely comprised of a thermoplastic, they would not be feasible as personal care products.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 3 is allowable. The Examiner found no description of the formation of an MTQ resin that entailed equilibrating a mixture of silsesquioxane and an MQ resin.
